Target Audience

This course is for Language Teachers who need to take a look at ideas to refresh their methods and techniques. Participants need to be at a B1 level of English.

Course Overview and Outcomes

This course will help you consider the four skills: speaking, writing, reading and listening and the language systems of grammar and vocabulary. You will think about different aspects of these skills and systems; what problems our learners might have with learning about or using them; and how we can help with these problems and teach skills and systems more effectively. You will also look at, and evaluate, different activities and resources for teaching language skills and systems. You will design and adapt some teaching materials in order to put into practice what you learn on the course.

Content

Teaching Skills and Language includes content drawn from some or all of the following areas:

- Identifying what the skills and systems in English are
- Exploring the reasons and strategies for listening and reading activities
- Evaluating classroom activities for receptive skills
- Thinking about important terminology for working with receptive skills
- Exploring the value of extensive reading and how to encourage learners to do it
- Exploring different aspects of the speaking skill: accuracy, fluency, pronunciation & discourse management
- Evaluating the purpose and effectiveness of different speaking activities in the classroom, where they might come in a lesson and how to run them
- Exploring writing activities: aim & effectiveness; product vs. process
- Evaluating the strengths and weaknesses of the PPP model
- Exploring resources for vocabulary teaching
- Thinking about how to help students practise, memorise and recycle vocabulary
- Thinking about important terminology for working with receptive skills
- Exploring the value of extensive reading and how to encourage learners to do it
- Thinking about what grammar is and what we need to think about when teaching it

Specific course content comes from feedback you and other participants give us through pre-course questionnaires, identifying your needs and priorities. We build time into the course for reflection, to consider how to adapt the content to your own professional context, and practice with the tools and platforms explored.

All NILE at ESE Malta courses involve a significant element of English language improvement and/or the development of language awareness
